Commitment to Community at New York Injury Law

COMMUNITY NEWS

Throughout the past year, New York Injury Law remained committed to supporting both its clients and the local community. The firm actively participated in several community-focused events in 2025, reinforcing its belief that meaningful service extends beyond the courtroom.

During the Halloween season, the firm joined a community Halloween Experience in Kingston, helping create a safe and welcoming environment for local families.

New York Injury Law also supported the Kingston Area Soccer League by volunteering at games, providing water bottles, backpacks, and family-friendly activities to encourage young athletes and their families.

In addition, the firm participated in the Ulster County PBA Bowlathon and the Boys and Girls Club Dinner, supporting charitable initiatives and youth development throughout the community.

These efforts reflect the firm's ongoing commitment to engagement, partnership, and service. New York Injury Law looks forward to continuing its involvement in the future.

The Team Behind the Success at New York Injury Law

At New York Injury Law, results are driven by people. Over the past year, the firm's success has been built on the hard work, dedication, and collaboration of a committed team that approaches every case with care, professionalism, and purpose. Each member plays a critical role in ensuring that clients receive attentive service and strong advocacy from start to finish.

Tim Kelly, Legal Operations Manager, oversees the firm's day to day operations, ensuring that systems, workflows, and resources are aligned to support efficient and effective case handling.

Lori Puetx, Law Office Manager, is central to keeping the office running smoothly, providing leadership, organization, and consistency across all administrative functions.

Nacole Secur, Legal Assistant, supports the legal team through detailed case preparation and coordination, helping move matters forward with accuracy and responsiveness.

Colden Staccio, Case Manager and Intake Clerk, serves as one of the first points of contact for clients, guiding them through the intake process while managing active cases with diligence and empathy.

Mary Berardi and Sarah Rudnitsky, Paralegals, provide essential legal support through research, drafting, and case development. Their attention to detail and commitment to excellence are vital components of the firm's litigation and settlement efforts.

Carlos Querlas Dommar, Intake Clerk, assists clients at the earliest stages of their cases, helping ensure that each matter begins with clarity and care.

Jackie Montoya, Spanish Interpreter, plays an indispensable role in ensuring clear communication and accessibility for Spanish speaking clients, reinforcing the firm's commitment to serving the community with respect and understanding.

Paul Klym, Information Coordinator, supports the firm by managing information flow, communication, and coordination, helping connect the work of the legal team with clients.

Together, this team represents the foundation of New York Injury Law. Their collective effort, professionalism, and dedication have been instrumental in the firm's accomplishments this year.

A Growing Partnership at the Foundation of New York Injury Law

Over the past year, New York Injury Law has been shaped not only by strong results, but also by the developing professional relationship between its founding partners, Keith Clarke, Esq. and John DeGasperis, Esq. What began as a shared vision has grown into a productive and well aligned partnership built on mutual respect, complementary strengths, and a unified commitment to client advocacy.

A key element of their working relationship has been alignment around innovation and execution. Together, they have emphasized the use of modern legal technology, streamlined processes, and data driven strategy to move cases forward with speed and precision. This shared commitment has allowed the firm to scale effectively while maintaining quality, responsiveness, and accountability.

Beyond operations and strategy, Keith and John have fostered a firm culture rooted in professionalism, trust, and collaboration. Their leadership sets the tone for the entire team, encouraging initiative, open dialogue, and a collective focus on results. This environment has played a meaningful role in the firm's ability to attract talent, retain clients, and deliver outcomes in its first year of operation. Their growing relationship over the past year has laid a strong foundation for the firm's future, guided by shared values, strategic alignment, and a long-term commitment to winning for injured New Yorkers.
